Build a wall from me Your words are mortar and limestone One wall's okay You're still easy to find

Put up a second wall Corner yourself and hide I can come around meet you on the other side

Tell me how how does it finally feel to be free Tell me how with those beautiful eyes you can't see

put up a third wall and watch the ocean roll in I'm a note in a bottle
The tide will wash me in

Put up a final wall
Lock me out of your life
I'm coming over top
I will scale, I will climb
I will climb

Tell me how how does it finally feel to be free Tell me how with those beautiful eyes you can't see

I'm an ocean of will in a desert of truth Not one wall stands in front of me With both arms I reach out to you

But you seal the top with stone lock me out for good all you've really done is locked yourself in You are buried alive

Tell me how how does it finally feel to be free Tell me how with those beautiful eyes you can't see
