

Storm

Arthur Brown

I don't know what you think you are doing
Like a helpless boat in the storm, you are losing your way
Life is confusion, you don't know what is real anymore
Anytime, anyplace, anywhere - peace is so far away

When you're walking backwards
When you're walking backwards into your own past
I don't think you realise
That all the things you think you are can't last
When you're walking backwards
When you're walking backwards into your own past
I don't think you realise
That all the things you think you are can't last

Don't you know you can't live without reason
Time is snatched from your outstretched hands like a toy from a child
Life has no meaning, you're alone in a fantasy
Anytime, anyplace, anywhere - the wind is running wild

When you're walking backwards
When you're walking backwards into your own past
I don't think you realise
That all the things you think you are can't last
When you're walking backwards
When you're walking backwards into your own past
I don't think you realise
That all the things you think you are
I don't think you realise
That all the things you think you are
I don't think you realise
That all the things you think

Take these veils from my eyes
Take these veils from my eyes
Take these veils from my eyes
Take these veils from my eyes
Take these veils from my eyes
Take these veils away
Take these veils from my eyes
Take these veils away now

You are free like a bird in the sunshine
Straight ahead, fly as straight as you can
You are free like a bird in the sunshine
Straight ahead, fly as straight as you can

Free
Free
Free
No fear, now look life straight in the
No fear, now look life straight in the
No fear, now look life straight in the
No fear, now look life straight in the eyes