

Trouble

Arthur Brown

Take a look into tomorrow
And see yesterday return
So much pain and so much sorrow
Will mankind ever learn?

I would like to write a song
And tell the world what's wrong with it today
I would write a book
If that were all it took to make its troubles go away
I'd write that book today

We want your brains to pay for further education