

Let Go

As December Falls

And I've been trying to make sense
Of this sixth sense
That's going through my head
I've been trying to make sense
Of this sixth sense
That's going through my head
Feels a lot like I'm drowning
And I'm stuck down here
Stuck beneath my fear

Take me away, just for today
And are you going to stay with me?
I can't handle, I will break away
And I know it's hard
I wish that I could just sit down
Living on this crazy train
How I wish that I could just let go

And do you know just what I have been up to?
I try to tell you, I try to tell you
And I am here, being put down
I need to get out, I am lost but never found

And it's hard to say but I don't want to stay
This place will be the death of me

Take me away, just for today
And are you going to stay with me?
I can't handle, I will break away
And I know it's hard
I wish that I could just sit down
Living on this crazy train
How I wish that I could just let go

Stop

I've got all these thoughts
And such a little time
I'm running out, out of this time
I'm never going to stop, never going to hide
I'm going to make it past this lie

Take me away, just for today
And are you going to stay with me?
I can't handle, I will break away
And I know it's hard
I wish that I could just sit down
Living on this crazy train
How I wish that I could just let go
