

The Truth I'll Never Tell - Reimagined

As It Is

How long's it been, it must be months
I swear this time I meant to keep in touch
Like always
I'm calmly coasting off the rails
I sit in battle with my fingernails
Like always

And I could tell you how I've really been
But would you even want to know

Don't want to bring you down, down, down
If I open my mouth I'm only gonna bring you
Down, down, down
Bring you down, down, down
Bring you down

I organise the kitchen shelf
But I've been dwelling on my mental health
Like always
A bitter win, I feel alone
I consciously confiscate my phone
It's a small change

Don't want to bring you down, down, down
If I open my mouth I'm only gonna bring you
Down, down, down
Bring you down, down, down

Feel the darkest clock creeping in
I'd tell you but I wouldn't want to bring you
Down, down, down
Bring you down, down, down
Bring you down

Turn around, you're gone again
I know I'll see you now and then
You say and hello and how you've been
I say that I'm not better yet

Turn around, you're gone again
I know I'll see you now and then
You say and hello and how you've been
I say that I'm not better yet

Turn around, you're gone again
I know I'll see you now and then
You say and hello and how you've been
I say that I

Don't want to bring you down, down, down
If I open my mouth I'm only gonna bring you
Down, down, down
Bring you down, down, down

Feel the darkest clock creeping in
I'd tell you but I wouldn't want to bring you
Down, down, down

Bring you down, down, down
Bring you down

Down (down, down, down)
Bring you down (down, down, down)
Down (down, down, down)
Bring you down (down, down, down)
