

Mon Ange

Asgaard

Somewhere... in time and out of time
In love to hatred, in hatred to love
I was born
And I hung between heaven and earth, between beauty and banality, between enchantment and a culmination of life.
My sisters - stars - endow heaven with beauty twinkling seductively with their horrified eyes;
Yet they can't love so much & hate that much
With one breath of solitary lust
This one breath obscures their gleam so much unstable...
And I rise over the peaks to extol your beauty of virgin which with it's grandeur sadden the prodigious angels...
I hate all that lasts only a while.
Love...
Life...
The shine of wretched stars.
In a downpour of love at Your gate of passion I stand.
You're my heart! A pearl in the Universe of stone...
Love me forever