

Moondust

Ash

I trust the ground beneath my feet
Never doubt the air I breathe
Do not question things unseen
As I follow my routine
But as the evening falls
And the shadows climb the walls
I feel the pulling of the tide
My gaze is drawn into the night

When you come home
Will you stay for good?
Won't you come home safe?
And will you bring me back some moondust?
Will you bring me some moondust?

We're spinning in the dark
As we drift further apart
Can I navigate your heart
With the guidance of the stars?
Will you return transformed?
Untroubled by our storms?
Do our conflicts seem so small
From so far above it all?

When you come home
Will you stay for good?
Won't you come back safe?
And will you bring me back?
Will you bring me back some moondust?
Will you bring me some moondust? [x5]
When you come home
