

There's a Time

Asher Monroe

One word
Few hearts
Beating as one
No exemption to the rule
We attract reflections of truth
Perception's a reality
On the borderline
The first sign of a cavity
When vibrations don't align
The universe surrenders to still mind

There's a time to re-imagine
A time for letting go
Better to be [?]
Than to hide in the unknown
Beauty's all around, yeah

When opportunity comes knocking
And inspiration's at your door
Is the "don't disturb" light on
For a package you're waiting for
Your music is safe here

In the eye of the storm
Mystery waits to unfold
When the glass seems half empty
Some would say half full
Six senses point to
Vision that's alluding you
But you're still graced within the fire
Here's the avenue
Whispering reach a little higher
Darkest nights unveil the brightest stars
Oh

There's a time to re-imagine
A time when we're aglow
Better to be [?]
Than to hide in the unknown
Your beauty is safe here

Let the symphony awake
Dreams you buried in your sleep
You're the molder of the clay
Creating wonders worth the wait
Your persistence will guide you

And I'm gonna hold you back
And I'm gonna hold you back
And I'm gonna hold you back back back

And I'm gonna hold you back
And I'm gonna hold you back
And I'm gonna hold you back back back
Back back back