

Temporary

Asher Roth

It's all so temporary
Temp'rary
Remember when it feels scary
Temp'rary

Docile while trial by fire, my child
Waiting for something worth wild
Flowers on the interstate
Fall in space, try to integrate
But my moon won't let me stay in place
What's his face? What's his name?
What's his occupation?
I'm okay, not for me, I'm on Appalachian
Resume on the way or an application has to wait
I can't say all my accolades, man
I'm amazed by this conversation
You are who you spend your days with, so true
I'd rather be alone than if I can't be with you
Don't bother with your phone if it's altering your mood
Asylums for the broken from indoctrinated schools
Sides feel like they're closing 'cause I don't make the rules
But I do though, cruise through the loophole
Used by the suits who are frugal, cool, bro
Pluto makes a move to new home
Ain't no use getting used to it, man, too old
Entire world is changing, feel new hope
Some would say it's danger, wonder if it's new growth, but

It's all so temporary
Temp'rary
Remember when it feels scary
Temp'rary
It's all so temporary
Temp'rary
Remember when it feels scary
Temp'rary

The least of my concerns is my pocket earns
A glimpse of the apocalypse will fry your perm
Blow your mind, what's behind the curtain
Emphasize that the dying is certain
But not permanent, birth is
Search for the words not working
This verse a space for nourishment
If church is a place for worship
With the nerve to erase the worst of it
Learn from it, can't change persons
Perched on the outskirts of this round Earth
I observe that a shout doesn't count as being heard
I've matured from a loud mouth who wants the last word
Cast shadow to the doubt, not too proud to be embarrassed
And now serves the sound through the crowned source
Travels out giving new meaning to crowd surf
Riding on the wave, feeling pure
Wish it'd stay the same, that's not how it works, 'cause

It's all so temporary

Temp'rary
Remember when it feels scary
Temp'rary
It's all so temporary
Temp'rary
Remember when it feels scary
