

All of Me

Ashes Remain

I am a mess of contradictions
I am a doubter who believes
And I try to hide the failures that I don't want you to see
But you tell me that you love me, more than I could understand
And you still call me, to come as I am!

You want my faith
You want my doubt
The things I don't wanna talk about
All that's broken, healed, and somewhere in between
I will lay it at your feet, and I won't hold back anything
'Cause what you want is all, what you want is all of me

You know every single heart beat
You know every breath I breathe
All the sin that held me captive, before mercy set me free
You are the God of new beginnings, you will never walk away
Your arms are open, so I won't be afraid!

To bring my faith
To bring my doubt
The things I don't wanna talk about

All that's broken, healed, and somewhere in between
I will lay it at your feet, and I won't hold back anything
'Cause what you want is all, what you want is all of me

Everything I am, placed inside your hands
Everything I knew before, every moment God is yours
All of me!

You want my faith
You want my doubt
The things I don't wanna talk about
All that's broken, healed, and somewhere in between
Broken, healed, and somewhere in between

You want my faith
You want my doubt
The things I don't wanna talk about
All that's broken, healed, and somewhere in between
I will lay it at your feet, and I won't hold back anything
'Cause what you want is all, what you want is all of me

All of me!