

There You Are

Ashley Monroe

Last night I dreamed of you again
It was the same dream that it's always been
Where I walk into the dark and I open up my heart
And there you are

And I reach out my arms to you
And do the things I know I should not do
'Cause in the morning light he lays here by my side
And there you are

My love
What do you want from me?
You're everything I want
He's everything I need

When no one's here I share your name
I swear I'll run your ghost back to its grave
When I think I've gained control of my body and my soul
Oh there you are

My love
What do you want from me?
You're everything I want
He's everything I need

Last night I dreamed of you again
It was the same dream that it's always been
Where I walk into the dark and I open up my heart
And there you are