

Drop A Stone

Asia

Drop a stone into the water, let it fall, let it fall
'Cos if you don't do what you oughta, might be all, so let it go o

Then take a leap into the darkness, just have faith, just have faith
The hill's too steep, the journey heavy, take it slow, and let it go

When the burden is too much to take
When you feel that your back is to break
When it all get too much, and your feelings are such that you ache
Let it go

And when you jump into the abyss, trust your heart, and you will know
For when you land on terra firma, I will say 'I told you so'

When the burden is too much to take
When you feel that your back is to break
When it all gets too much, and your feelings are such that you ache
Let it go

When you put your shoulder to the boulder, wear a smile, and feel the glow
Hold your hand out to another, you will know, you let it go
