

Before You Stopped Loving Me

Asleep At The Wheel

Don't ever leave
That's what you said to me
Before you stopped loving me
And you even planned how our whole life would be
Before you stopped loving me

Nights weren't so long
In turning into days
And you never used to turn your back
On everything I'd say
I built a wall, I thought you'd want to see
Before you stopped loving me

It never seemed wrong to hold you in my arms
Before you stopped loving me
And you never lied or try to deceive
Before you stopped loving me

I never had to talk so loud
To make you hope and see
That you're planning for a future now
That doesn't include me
Your future plans are something I don't need
Because you stopped loving me
