

Prisoner

Assuming We Survive

I did it all for love

My body is broken I'm torn at my seams
I've been better off but don't know what that means
These walls could tell stories, these walls know the screams
I left for these reasons to heal not to bleed

Should I walk away never looking back again
Should I walk away never looking back

When are you coming home I'm tired and alone
You make me feel like I'm nothing, I'm nothing at all
Well baby I stayed through the rise and the fall
I lost myself and I did it all for love

I've tried to be strong not be weak to be fair
I've tried all I can but you don't seem to care
I'm never good enough, I won't be good enough for you
No matter what I do you I feel so helpless, so helpless

Cause you keep me injured
Bleeding out but not enough to fade
Like a wounded prisoner
Left for dead you treat me like I'm bait

When are you coming home I'm tired and alone
You make me feel like I'm nothing, I'm nothing at all
Well Baby I stayed through the rise and the fall
I lost myself and I did it all for love

Have I lost my self I did it all for love
Have I lost my self I did it all for

Loving you
Took the best of me
I can't break loose
You've got me, you've got me
Loving you
Took the best of me
Till the rest of me was not enough to use
Now I'm not enough to use

Should I walk away never looking back again
Should I walk away never looking back

When are you coming home I'm tired and alone
You make me feel like I'm nothing, I'm nothing at all
Well baby I stayed through the rise and the fall
I lost myself and I did it all for love

Loving you
Took the best of me
Till the rest of me was not enough to use
Now I'm not enough to use
