

Lonely Afternoon

Astrud Gilberto

There she was
All alone
On an afternoon
All alone with the sand
As she walked beside the sea
Watching the summer sky
Watching the day go by
Wistful and shy was she
And there she was
All alone on an afternoon

All alone with the sand
And the long and lonely shore
Then all at once
He came walking by
Not a bit too soon
Now she'll never know
Another lonely afternoon

All alone with the sand
And the long and lonely shore
Then all at once
He came walking by
Not a bit too soon
Now she'll never know
Another lonely afternoon
Lonely afternoon
Lonely afternoon
Lonely afternoon
