You know that I'll always be loving you

Ay

I could spend forever loving you

Fending for the right to be the penmanship you love to use
The similes and metaphors, I only think you're better for Cause' I've been on a separate course but now I'm catching up to you

(Loving you, you)

I crave to be the dots on your I's, the lines of your t's
All the thoughts and disguise if he's rhyming for me
We fought and we've lied, we've defied with deceit, but I keep coming back to that smile and your cheeks

(Loving you, you)

And the dimple on the right's got my eyes on a lease
Type of person I've always been dying to meet
It's the truth and I'll always stand by it, got me feeling like a king I guess I really am Midas

(Loving you, you)

Hearts in the air feeling like my hand gliding
I was searching for the floor, like I really can't find it
And with you, I'm always catching all the W's
(I'll always be loving you)

So much to gain from this don't think I have enough to lose
I'm haunted by the thought of you eloping with another dude
Well not really, I mean, I'm pretty great right?

Chillin' with your fam and playing Scrabble on the date nights
(Loving you, you)

And in my eyes it kinda seems like you're another me
So I'm confident you'll never stop loving me

(Loving you, you)
