It feels like I'm skydiving when I text you
Rose petals on the floor outside your bedroom
Sunshine, whenever you smile, it's the best view
I was at the bottom waiting for a rescue
But now it's like a paradise enveloped in light Everyone's probably aware, but I'ma tell 'em despite Even telling 'em twice, you're a hell-a delight
You've got a smile like a story that I'd tell every night
And if you're feeling sickly, I'ma break out the Campbell's
And make sure you get your hand held damn well
If you can't tell, I'm in a bit of a trance
Such a pretty romance, the way it fits in the plans
It's like a sundress on an early afternoon
Up next, I'm just curling up with you
No question, I guess that it's the truth

You're just really fucking cute

Sunshine, I'm watching
Through the window
I can hear the birds outside
Sunshine, there's something
In the air
I can feel it when you're there
