

Even The Winter

Audrey Assad

What if we find ourselves beneath the snow,
Our warmest words all frozen in our throats
And all we feel is left out in the cold,
You & I?

What if the ice we tread is just too thin?
What if we can't escape the squall we're in?
What if our hearts of stone are permanent,
You & I?

Even the winter won't last forever...
We'll see the morning, we'll feel the sun
We'll wake up in April, ready & able
Sowing the seeds in the soil
Of love

What if the days grow short & lose their light?
What if the coals burn black & the embers die
& we can't find each other in the night?
You and I...

What if the spring comes soon
& we're surprised?
What if the seasons help us realize,
Some things are only proven over
Time?

Even the winter won't last forever
We'll see the morning, we'll feel the sun
Even the darkness cannot disarm us
We'll break up the earth, because we know
That it's worth it
Sowing the seeds in the soil of our love.
