

Where'd you go

I mean

We'd be down for so long and all of a sudden you disappeared on me and that's just not fucking fair

I mean, you know

We've seen so much

I've been with you at your lows, at your highs and

You see me at all peaks and valleys, and this is just bullshit

It's just bullshit. And you don't have the decency to tell me what's changed, what's gone wrong

Like we're not friends, like we're not family?

It's wrong, and you know - everything I've done for you, everything I've done for your homies, everything I've done for your momma, your friends, your brothers, your cousins

We were a unit and this is just, it's just wrong and I think you know it's wrong and I shouldn't even have been saying say this to you, because you know, you're smart. This isn't some type of confused situation. It's not like you didn't know what this was or what you were to me. And I know what I am to you

So show up

Show up, Marshall