

Thoughts big enough to fill the room
It's sweet but it gets better too, darling
The seasons change and so do you
But we both know it was overdue, darling

I tried to save you, yeah
Tried to come to your rescue
Guess I was just never meant to
You never even wanted to be saved

You walked into my head and watched me fall right off the edge
I'm trying so hard to convince you
But that ain't never did nothing for me that's why I stopped drinking
I always end up drunk enough to call you

I don't know what it was
What it was, what it was in love
I saw the future it had only one of us
That's why I do, what I do, don't get that shit misconstrued
I just don't think there'll be room for the both of us

How could you ever blame me
I was doing good way before you came in
You was something different, something else I had to change things
Lost track of the old me, now don't even know me

You walked into my head and watched me fall right off the edge
I'm trying so hard to convince you
But that ain't never did nothing for me that's why I stopped drinking
I always end up drunk enough to call you

You walked into my head and watched me fall right off the edge
I'm trying so hard to convince you
But that ain't never did nothing for me that's why I stopped drinking
I always end up drunk enough to call you

I tried to save you, yeah
Tried to come to your rescue
Guess I was just never meant to
You never even wanted to be saved

Thoughts big enough to fill the room
It's sweet but it gets better too, darling
The seasons change and so do you
But we both know it was overdue, darling
I tried to save you
Tried to come to your rescue
I tried to save you