

Sundress

Austin Mahone

One, two

First met her on the west side of Cali
Only took one look and girl you had me
Driving down the Hollywood hills through the Valley
Coastline and even cruising Malibu
There's nothing like that shotgun view
Arm out the window, surfing old school
Sunflowers black and yellow all over you
One hand on the wheel the other holding you

Took a shot and knew I couldn't miss
When you lean in for that first slow kiss
This is the moment that I reminisce
No matter where we are
I can't help but remember

That sunrise and that sundress
She's my pretty little thing out from sunset
Can't forget that first day ain't been the same since
I know you were the one for me
Watching that sunrise in that sundress
She's my pretty little thing out from sunset
Can't forget that first day ain't been the same since
I know you were the one for me

We've done a lot, girl it's been a minute
It's been awhile since I've seen you in it
First class from London to Paris
South beach back home under that Texas moon
Bring the heat keep the summertime cool
Let's roll it Backwood tight like the sides glued

Sunflowers black and yellow all over you
No hands on the wheel
I can't help but remember

That sunrise and that sundress
She's my pretty little thing out from sunset
Can't forget that first day ain't been the same since
I know you were the one for me
Watching that sunrise in that sundress
She's my pretty little thing out from sunset
Can't forget that first day ain't been the same since
I know you were the one for me
