The Bravery

Authority Zero

We are the bravery that stands today And paves our own way These are my hopes These are my dreams This is the way that I'd like to think That things could be Out on my own taking the chances as i go I'll never give up, I'll never give in I'm going to fight this till then end of my days And I'm turning blue in the face Because my heart tells me not to take this With every breath that i breathe today I'm not giving up, fuck your expectations These words I'll sing until my dying day We are the bravery that stands today And paves our own way For now we go against the grain And take the reigns for a better dat I'm standing outside of the box Trying to get a new point of view Something we have never seen before But keeping the faith in all I've known True to myself to the day I die All these things that keep me alive This music, my love, my pain What's paved the way Because my heart tells me not to take this With every breath that I breathe today I'm not giving up, fuck your expectations These words I'll sing until my dying day
