I know what's on your mind
A plan you can no longer hide
I've been there and I know how it feels
You conquer the world, but the wound doesn't heal
Cheat the game just to put up a fight
You give all you got just to claim you were right

It happens in every generation Anything for fortune and fame Higher stakes and greater expectations New times, but the need is the same It's just a another generation

You take all you can get
And you love laying down your bet
Cut in line take a bite tell a lie
Whatever it takes just to get the spotlight
Buy the world with a black credit card
But you miss the mark after trying so hard

It happens in every generation
Anything for fortune and fame
Higher stakes and greater expectations
New times, but the need is the same
It happens in every generation
Anything for fortune and fame
Higher stakes and greater expectations
New times, but the need is the same
It's just a another generation

Another generation Another generation Another generation

It happens in every generation
Anything for fortune and fame
Higher stakes and greater expectations
New times, but the need is the same
It happens in every generation
Anything for fortune and fame
Higher stakes and greater expectations
New times, but the need is the same
It's just a another generation
Another generation
Another generation
Another generation