Parker

Do you remember

How i carried your heart

I was your fire once You thought of me as your one true love I got so mad Said things that later I would regret and regret and regret Holding onto my chest and pounding till it turns purple A breaking bow and the sound of a scream muffled by pillows So don't so long And don't farewell Hear me out now i've just begun to say Parker Do you remember How i carried your heart And i carried it far And i know That theres no one to blame Its a sure given shame of my own That you don't... Remember Sworn off blue lips Kiss them warm With love comes deep dark red And paper cuts From letters i re-write explaining how to fall in love Well pictures inspire and songs never tire And there's always clouds to float upon Saving me best for last Down for keeps up for grabs We'll play stop and go But it feels just like freeze tag So ill see you right Applaud and encore Ill be braver just you wait here till i say Parker Do you remember How i carried your heart And i carried it far And i know That theres no one to blame Its a sure shame of my own I'm naked once so don't think twice Hold on Its hard enough to bite my shy Hold on Hold on Hold tight Parker Do you remember How i carried your heart And i carried it far

And i carried it far
And i know
That theres no one to blame
Its a sure given shame of my own
Of my own
Of my own
Its a sure shame of my own
That you don't that you wont remember
