

Who am I to make you consider yourself but how can I watch you walk through hell? as I held your head up straight I clenched m y fists but not in rage I've fought so many off I'm still surro unded thers so much I meant to say that depth forced to contain it's not right I lied I never changed I'm the same person as I drink my problems straight I've touched your hand to test for strength behind one step ahead I'm nearly drowning if I dropped to my knees and said I'd hold you every day I'd fail myself do you understand? goddamn we've got the same last name right? yo u're right in front of me did you believe you'd fall that deep from fear? you say you're down well try and make it through ano ther night stay in front of me it's hard to believe but I've wa lked that path before I'm saying, forget about last night