

Sidewalk

Avail

It was time when I walked away we said good-bye I was confused I traded everything for another life and though I left I swore that I would never go you said you would save a place until I c ame back home

I've got a new design and I want to try it on for size I was ho ping you would let me 'cause when I think that everything is on the brink I now that you are there to catch me

Spilling time looking for salvation in my mind holding on holdi ng out for life I swore I would never go
