Aversions Crown

(It's speaking to me, it's speaking to all of us
It's controlling me, it's controlling all of us)

Once a masterpiece of civilization, broken scattered and in ruin

Once a masterpiece of civilization, broken scattered and in fucking ruin

This is where the epicenter of the empire was sucked into the warp

This is where they lost their faith in us

Intense complexity falling into corruption and transcending time

It became consumed by the single idea of ending all of the life

It has twisted them it created the one true nemesis of everything

Eternally thirsting for the anguish of every living thing

The redemption machine, the engine that crafted our world

A construct that spans the dimensions

Intertwining with thought and existence

Past present and parallel

It waits for you on the other side of the veil

It waits for you on the other side of the veil

Once a masterpiece of civilization, broken scattered and in ruin

Once a masterpiece of civilization, broken scattered and in fucking ruin

It will end all life

It will end the cancer of this world

It will end all of your fucking lives

The rift is open

It's controlling me

It's controlling all of us

It's speaking to me

It's speaking to all of us

The oculus breathes once more and the hive world has slipped through

This is now reality, fuck

Deceiver, the man of many faces

Deceiver, the man of many faces
