

You're Just A Guy

Avery Lynch

Isn't it romantic
All the short nights and long conversations?
And I don't know what happened
But it ended with me there, unraveling

Yeah, there's a fine line between having a crush and then falling
In love, yet
I could've sworn, when you looked at me, you must have felt it
'Cause I did

But I-I built it up in my mind
When you're just a guy who gave me some attention
Just stars in your eyes, nothing to glorify
When all of this time I made you the exception
But you're just a guy
Who looked in my direction
Yeah, you're just a guy who gave me some attention

Said you wanted someone different (Different)
As we'd stay up 'til four in the morning
Spilling our secrets like that all had a point when (Point when)
You picked everyone else but kept me on your shelf if you needed

Yeah, there's a fine line between having a crush and then falling
In love, yet
I could've sworn, when you looked at me, you must have felt it
'Cause I did

But I-I built it up in my mind
When you're just a guy who gave me some attention
Just stars in your eyes, nothing to glorify
When all of this time I made you the exception
But you're just a guy
Who looked in my direction
Yeah, you're just a guy who gave me some attention

We're not some kind of unrequited tragedy
You're just a person I wanted to look at me
Butterflies every time that our hands would meet
But that doesn't mean
I should be reeling, it's not some catastrophe
Just a person I let get too close to me
No, it's not rocket science, it's surface deep
You're a guy who I liked and who liked me

Yeah, you're just a guy
You're just a guy who gave me some attention
Yeah, you're just a guy (Just a, just a guy)
When, all of this time, I made you the exception (Just a, just a, just a)
Yeah, you're just a guy (Just a, just a guy)
Who looked in my direction
Yeah, you're just a guy who gave me some attention
