The time has come, I need to go
The incantation will fade away when we'll go
I'll be the pray, the curse will be on you
And I know, everything that I'll need to do then

You see that I can't breathe. I cannot win this fight
When I try to care about you every day and night
You say that I complain, but lifes's about those stairs
That lead us to the point, where belief is only this

The candle is burning, don't speak louder!
His eyes are always open and never has a rest
Give me your hand and close your eyes!
I draw the clandestine sign to your arm

You see that I can't breathe. I cannot win this fight
When I try to care about you every day and night
You say that I complain, but lifes's about those stairs
That lead us to the point, where belief is only this

Shut your eyes, hear the sound!
Seize the death. don't let it run!
Look the clock, count the hours!
The time is coming, wait in silence!
