

Empty Again

Axium

The world falls down around me
Tales of faith and spirituality
My hands are worn from holding on My eyes are numb from being gone
And now I know I swore I'd never let this bring me down.

I'm empty again
I lost control of my only friend
I live in colors of black and blue
And I live with this burden without you
Without you

I'm chained to the wall in pain
I've never been the one to die in vain.
My heart's on the line,
no conception of time
Reach out, close my eyes, and let this pass away.

I'm empty again
I've lost control of my only friend
I live in colors of black and blue
and I live with this burden, without you.

I'm empty again
I lost control of my only friend
I live in colors of black and blue and I live with this burden