Missed the Mark

Ayria

You've got some nerve
Standing here in front of me
Don't you touch me
Never knew I'd be so easy to dismiss
Don't take this wrong
But I have nothing left to give
I'm the one obsessing over broken hearts
And what it was I did

Shame on me for not recognizing the
Shame between us would soon drive us apart
Shame on me for not recognizing the
Shame between us would soon drive us apart

Nobody knows me but you saw something
That not even I've been able to reach
You've made me reserved, afraid to touch
For it might all just go away
And nobody knows me but you took something
That not even I was able to save
You've made me reserved, afraid to touch
For it has all just gone away

When I see fire
I have to learn to run away
Instead of reaching in, I burn, I scar
I just can't help myself
I never learn
I have failed a thousand times
So much I've had has been consumed by
The greedy mouth of time

Shame on me for not recognizing the
Shame between us would soon drive us apart
Shame on me for not recognizing the
Shame between us would soon drive us apart

Nobody knows me but you saw something
That not even I've been able to reach
You've made me reserved, afraid to touch
For it might all just go away
And nobody knows me but you took something
That not even I was able to save
You've made me reserved, afraid to touch
For it has all just gone away
Nobody knows me but you saw something
That not even I've been able to reach
You've made me reserved, afraid to touch
For it might all just go away
And nobody knows me but you took something
That not even I was able to save
You've made me reserved, afraid to touch
For it has all just gone away

Shame on me for not recognizing the
Shame between us would soon drive us apart
Shame on me for not recognizing the

Shame between us would soon drive us apart
Shame on me for not recognizing the
Shame between us would soon drive us apart
Shame on me for not recognizing the
Shame between us would soon drive us apart
