Ever since before I was born
I've been searching for something that won't change
In my search, I surely found it and then lost it again
And even hurt people some nights

If you could have just one wish come true
If you could have just one wish come true
What would you wish for?
What would you wish on this sky for?

Alongside my strong feelings of desire
I was beginning to feel resigned
I found it and then parted with it
And even hurt myself some nights

If I could offer you something
If I could offer you something
It would be this sure, unchanging love

If you smile, even just a little
It'll mean there's still a reason to live
If you want me, even just a little
I wonder if that means I'll be allowed to live here

If you could have just one wish come true
If you could have just one wish come true
What would you wish for?

If I could offer you something
If I could offer you something
It would be this sure, unchanging love
Yes, it would be this sure, unchanging love
Here
