I was afraid of simple days so long ago
I know now it's complicated days that are sad

I don't mean to say I want to return
My heart wants to believe, and look, it's shouting in my back, "you aren't wrong at all"

Two of us are having the same time and believing in the same future
Our tears yesterday and our smiles today are both true

Because we know the same pain, bring along the same tenderness
And change them into the strength to live on tomorrow

I was fighting at that time, at that place
If all my deeds were to choose the way I am now

I wonder if it's because I want to be forgiven
That I want to forgive my past I couldn't face, I left behind and looked away from

The days we could just be free are far past
And though we can't spend the days with just innocent smiles now

We go forward, we continue to go forward even so
Because we still have the hearts to believe in something

You see? We haven't and will not Want much at all

Two of us are having the same time and believing in the same future
Our tears yesterday and our smiles today are both true

If we know the same pain, bring along the same tenderness
And can change them into the strength to live on tomorrow, surely...
