

Half a Heart

B.J. Thomas

Somewhere tonight
Do you still call my name
Everything here is alright
Except for the hole you left in my heart
Staring at me as deep as the dark

I feel you there
Moving through these empty rooms
Sometimes on the midnight air
I can still catch a fragrance of you
The sweetest of memories that I ever knew

Without a doubt
We're better together
Than we'll ever be apart
Living without you is like staying alive
With only half a heart

Are you alone
I really want to think you are
Oh, every empty night I've known
Pictures of you run 'round in my head
Goodbye is a word we should never have said

Without a doubt
We're better together
Than we'll ever be apart
Living without you is like staying alive
With only half a

Heart has a memory
That never forgets
You break it bad enough and it never mends

Without a doubt
We're better together
Than we'll ever be apart
Living without you is like staying alive
With only half a heart

Living without you is like staying alive
With only half a heart