

One Woman

B.J. Thomas

My heart went crazy about 1960
I started reaching for dreams
Time has no meaning
When you're just screaming

Down the highway in busted blue jeans
Taking lovers like candy, anyone handy
They sure felt good at the time
But too much of anything
Leaves you with nothing
But an ache that you can't leave behind

I was alright, alright
Just one more life in the night
I was holding on, holding on
Asking for needs to be gone

One woman
I'm looking for that one woman
To change my life in one moment
I'll know her in just one touch

One someone
One make me come undone someone
She's out inside one woman
Maybe it might be you

You walk up to me
Talked like you knew me
Staring my worn out heart to death
Never a stranger felt so familiar
And I felt it more every breath

I was alright, alright
Till you took over the night
I was holding on, holding on
Screaming out loud on and on

One woman
I'm looking for that one woman
To change my life in one moment
I'll know her in just one touch

I want that one someone
One make me come undone someone
She's out inside one woman
Maybe it might be you

One woman
I'm looking for that one woman
To change my life in one moment
I'll know her in just one touch

I want that one someone
One make me come undone someone
She's out there inside one woman
Maybe it might be you

One woman
I'm looking for that one woman
To change my life in one moment
I'll know her in just one touch

I want that one someone
One make me come undone someone
She's out there inside one woman
Maybe it might be you
