

winter

Baby Ariel

I was waiting for you by the river
Waiting for things to get better
You were dancing with her 'till September
You kissed her and told her you loved her like I did

But your words they cut like knives on a silver screen
And your words they lie like eyes
You know what I mean?
And I'm sorry if it feels like it was years ago
'Cause it was years ago

But for now, I'm on my own and I'm dancing all alone
I like the note you wrote
I left it in my phone
Please don't call again
It's getting old so I'm going home

I was waiting for you underwater
Waiting for you to remember
And you were laughing with her by the fire
She touched you and told you she needs you like I did

But the words she spoke you know she stole from me
'Cause she's real to you while I'm a memory
And I'm sorry if it feels like it was years ago
'Cause it was years ago

I'm on my own and I'm dancing all alone
I like the note you wrote
I left it in my phone
Please don't call again
It's getting old so I'm going home
