

Marked

Bad Religion

If I'm a monster,
I am a willing one,
this roller coaster ride is an enticing one, on the tip of a continuum flowing wavelike through disorder carry me like a vessel to water

Everything you see leaves a mark on your soul, everything you feel leaves a mark on your soul, everything you touch leaves a mark on your soul, everything you make leaves a mark on your soul

If I can touch it,
I can destroy it,
if it's imaginable to some degree, I can become it, like a hungry turning vortex that just flickers to existence, consuming bits and pieces until I'm finally extinguished

Everyone you see leaves a mark on your soul, everyone you bare leaves a mark on your soul, everyone you touch leaves a mark on your soul, everyone you love leaves a mark on your soul

Everything you take leaves a mark on your soul, everything you give leaves a mark on your soul, and all the fear and loneliness that's impossible to control, and every tear you cry leaves a mark on your soul
