

Show Your Face

Balance and Composure

Well I've been running away from you for the past couple years,
spent my days down by the river,
and hoped to see your face.
And it's been hard to speak up when no one is listening to me,
compared to you I am so small, so small.

Your words cannot tell me that my neighbour is burning.
For that I can't believe. So tell me, am I burning too?

The sky's your window, but where am I hiding?
I've been waiting.

It's always on my troubled mind. [x4]

How long will it take for you to fall to the ground?
'Cause I've been waiting here for years,
and my feet are cold, and my back is sore.
How long will it take for you to realise that you are nothing?
'Cause I've been watching closely, and you just wouldn't show your face.

I was never about this, never about this love. [x4]

It goes on until I'm numb. [x2]

The sky's your window, but where am I hiding?
I've been waiting.