

Blues For Rosann

Balthazar

Look at us now we got this far,
but far she says only China is.
I step aside, I make place,
for the gambler with my face.

Would you swim with me?
I'd be thrilled honestly.
Would you swim with me?
I'd be thrilled honestly.
Would you bring me the head of the girls that I met?
I've heard the the jugglers who threw me here
return this day next year.

I felt like shit before,
but when I think of my baby leaving
I can't take this smell no more.
I walked this street before.
I ain't the one that is moving, baby,
but this town ain't like home anymore.

How many friends should I sleep with in here
to make the weight of my birden all clear?
I'm passing on my highest card
now the gambler took my part.

Would you swim with me?
I'd be thrilled honestly.
Would you swim with me?
I'd be thrilled honestly.
Would you bring me the head of the girl I was with?
And all the jugglers the jugglers who threw me here.
And all the boxers they step out of the ring,
take their bathrobes and sing.

I felt like shit before,
but when I think of my baby leaving
I can't take this smell no more.
I walked this street before.
I ain't the one that is moving, baby,
but this town ain't like home anymore.

The boxers sang with the carnival band
