Balthazar

Crippled by this raw desire
I keep on reaching high and higher
And now the stars replaced the sun
And there's a woman's face
In each and everyone
And it's so blinding

A little goes a long way
A lot of it a long way further
A little goes a long way
A lot of it a long way further

At first it just affects your skin
But then it takes you over from within
It shines out through your eyes
It starts to shine out past the drought
Inside of your mouth
And it's all so blinding

A little goes a long way
A lot of it a long way further
A little goes a long way
A lot of it a long way further

So I'm not going home, babe
Oh, why should I

A little goes a long way
A lot of it a long way further
A little goes a long way
A lot of it a long way further
