Chinese Restaurant

Baltimora

The time is eight o'nine I'm running to the line The one that takes me down Down to Chinatown

There's shouting in the streets A pattering of feet Intrigue is everywhere Total chaos

Chinese restaurant We're meeting here tonight We'll say goodbye For one more time Chinese restaurant Keep breaking up and mending Seems to be the pattern of your love

A writing on the wall A symbol tells it all I should have known before She was moving on

Mysterious almond eyes Incapable of lies I should have known before She was moving

Chinese restaurant We're meeting here tonight We'll say goodbye For one more time Chinese restaurant Keep breaking up and mending Seems to be the pattern of your love

It's just like a movie We kiss and she walks away Alone on the sidewalk I'm left like a fool today It's just like a movie And my fortune cookie says: "Keep on moving on your way, She'll be back here once again"

Chinese restaurant We're meeting here tonight We'll say goodbye For one more time Chinese restaurant Keep breaking up and mending Seems to be the pattern of your love

It's just like a movie We kiss and she walks away Alone on the sidewalk I'm left like a fool today It's just like a movie
And my fortune cookie says:
"Keep on moving on your way,
She'll be back here once again"