

Intervention

Banner Pilot

I know that I just fucked up everything
And I know that nights like these might leave a scar
I gave up every goddamn thing for you
And now I'm stuck here in the backseat of my car

But you know sometimes, when I'm drunk on wine,
I think I can change
But the morning kills the hopes
And hills turn mountain range

And this world whirls like a machine
It keeps smashing my dreams
So I stay close to myself
Cause when you live in hell
You know things never work out
I can't consume all the doubt
I'm not surprised at the way
It ended up today

So whats the point as you look down and close your eyes
Theres a million ways that we've never tried
See, all my friends are already gone
But you're still here
And as you close the door, I watched you mouth "goodbye"

And when I find my keys I'm eastbound walking home
And I curse this sky and kick these cobblestones
I gave you every goddamn thing I got
But if you weigh it up I guess its not a lot

But you know, sometimes, when I'm drunk on wine
I think I can change
But the morning kills the hopes
And hills turn mountain range

His world whirls like a machine
It keeps smashing my dreams
So I stay close to myself
Cause when you live in hell
You know things never work out
I can't consume all the doubt
I'm not surprised at the way
It ended up today

These dark eyes have focused on the light
Gonna be another lonely night
I don't have time for intervention

And I hear almost every word you say
Were just getting by in different ways
I don't have time for intervention

And it took me years to build this wall
Now brick by brick just let me fall
I don't have time for intervention, intervention, intervention

I know exactly what I need,

A ride home and a couple days of sleep
I don't have time for intervention, intervention, intervention
