

Head like a lit match, shifting your weight back
Half tipping over, this isn't over
They just make noise, again and again and again
And they're just boys, again and again and again

Oh, skipping every other step
Who knew what else was coming?
Oh, the kids all know your name
You spent your summers running

Well, guessing isn't knowing
But everybody says that they know about you
They're talking on the stoop
Asking how we all do everything that we do
And it's just noise, again and again and again
And they're just boys, again and again and again

Oh, skipping every other step (Every other step)
Who knew what else was coming? (Who knew what else what coming)
Oh, the kids all know your name (All know your name)
You spent your summers running

Oh, skipping every other step (Every other step)
Who knew what else was coming? (Who knew what else what coming)
Oh, the kids all know your name (All know your name)
You spent your summers running
