Someone For Everyone

Basia

There is always someone there for everyone You might not believe it now, but give it time Then say it clearly, say it straight Forget you know this language well You cannot hide away from love Though you can run

this could be a revolution
This could be love's resurrection

one door shuts, another opens

there is someone there for you who doesn't mind
One who knows - the past is better left behind Dreams enormous dreams
And one who dares enough to live again
?cause trying hard and falling down is not a crime

this could be revolution
This could be love's resurrection

one door shuts, another opens