

The Haunted Man

Bat for Lashes

I couldn't sleep last night
Cause I tried to forget you
In the suffocated air
I resolved to let you go

Twisted all our dreams
'Til you became the nightmare
Close it off inside
Or else the hurt is gonna rise...

I couldn't sleep last night
Cause I tried to forget you
Heard the old man and the sea
Singing low

"And the silver fish" she cried,
"Never forget, had gone and died"
And the babes that clung to her
Had all let go

[Male choir:]
My dear she touched my skin
And oh did the skin
Set a burning
My dear she touched my skin

Where once we kissed and ran
That memory scorched the man
I have to tell you dear
(Ask me to hold you I...)
Death has become my breathing
(Far away gone and I...)

My dear she touched my skin
(Ask me to tell you I...)
And oh she did, she touched my skin
(Holding the ghost of a man I...)
Where once we kissed and ran
(Ask me to tell you I...)
This madness haunted the man
(Holding the ghost of a man...)

Still I'm holding out my hand
Standing by my haunted man
Yes, your ghosts have go me too
But it's me and you
I can't run...

Still I'm holding out my hand
Standing by my haunted man
Yes, your ghosts have go me too
But it's me and you
I can't run...
