

Endless Summer

Battle Beast

Pavements are burning in the bright sunlight
Grey striped cats slips out of sight
It's a hot summer day on these small town streets
Where our wishful eyes and high hopes meet

Every lucky mistake yet to be made
At the edge of eternity we play

We were deathless
Those days were endless and full of dreams
You were mine
In the heat of summertime

The air's still warm, but the wind is chill
My heart beats fast, time stands still
In the fullness of late summer days
When we took separate ways

Every lucky mistake yet to be made
At the edge of eternity we play

We were deathless
Those days were endless and full of dreams
You were mine
In the heat of summertime

I was broken but withered leaves
Were buried by November trees
When spring unlocked the frozen streams
It already felt like a distant dream
Sometimes I wonder
If your eyes still smile
Like they did in the fading light
Of all those endless summer nights

We were deathless
Those days were endless and full of dreams
You were mine
In the heat of summertime