

Real Man

beabadoobee

Why don't you just pull another?
My simple lover
I'm not going for no other
I told my mother
What you did, like a kid

And I already told you I just wanted to dance
Could you see me standing out here with my outstretched hand
I guess no one ever taught you how to be a real man

Walking as the morning beckoned
You said you'd be a second
Locked the back door, yeah, you should have mentioned
Guess I should expect it
I'm out here blue
What to do?

And I already told you I'm not part of the band
Please forgive me just for thinking it's a fleeting romance
I guess no one ever taught you how to be a real man

Would you hold it down and take it if I gave you a chance?
Need the reassurance baby, not a silly romance
Guess I'm used to being disappointed, falling too fast
If you want it, go and get it and I hope you last
If you want it, go and get it and I hope you last

Would you hold it down and take it if I gave you a chance?
Need the reassurance baby, not a silly romance
Guess I'm used to being disappointed, falling too fast
If you want it, go and get it and I hope you last
If you want it, go and get it and I hope you last

Would you hold it down and take it if I gave you a chance?
Need the reassurance, baby, not a silly romance
Guess I'm used to being disappointed, falling too fast
If you want it, go and get it, and I hope you last
If you want it, go and get it, and I hope you last
