

Promises

Beach Bunny

Promises and problems were all left unsaid
Buried away at the back of my bed
Close my eyes but every time I try to rest
It's hard to think clearly, you live inside my head

Maybe you will, maybe you can't
Now you're gone
It's so unfair, keeping me from moving on

A part of me still wants you
A part of me wants to fall asleep
While we were all alone in your bedroom
You came like a reoccurring dream
A part of me still hates you
How could you love someone and leave?
When you're all alone in your bedroom
Do you ever think of me?

The wasted words you tried to breathe were poetry
Living in a memory, walking through a daydream
Sister said "be patient, things aren't what they seem"
But it's hard to think clearly, you never say what you mean

Maybe you will, maybe you can't
Now you're gone
It's so unfair, keeping me from moving on

A part of me still wants you
A part of me wants to fall asleep
While we were all alone in your bedroom
You came like a reoccurring dream
A part of me still hates you
How could you love someone and leave?
When you're all alone in your bedroom
Do you ever think of me?

Think of me
Think of me
Think of me, me, me
Think of me
Think of me
Think of me, me, me

A part of me still wants you
A part of me wants to fall asleep
While we were all alone in your bedroom
You came like a re-occurring dream
A part of me still hates you
How could you love someone and leave?
When you're all alone in your bedroom
Do you ever think of me?