

Precipitation

Bears In Trees

I met someone who takes photos
A keen eye for photography
They said photography is all about patience
Seeing everything's beauty
A voiceless song sings within as you
Focus on what is
The line of that house, the light through the clouds
The fractal branches blowing in the breeze

So set me the petrichor
Set me the petrichor

They said the clouds opened up
And the heavens came down
Felt like precipitation all the same
And I guess friend well look
When we go to sleep for good
We'll just sing in the rain

I see flowers in your eyes they bloom
I hope the petals don't wilt and die soon
And I know you don't eat at all in front of other people
But one day we'll try a whole menu

So set me the petrichor
Set me the petrichor
Set me the petrichor

They said the clouds opened up
And the heavens came down
Felt like precipitation all the same
And I guess friend well look
When we go to sleep for good
We'll just sing in the rain

I want to sit with you and have healthy conversations
Our wants, our wills, our trials and tribulations
Sort through faults and fears, the happier years
Let the smiles be the tears replacement

I want to sit with you and have healthy conversations
Our wants, our wills, our trials and tribulations
Sort through faults and fears, the happier years
Let the smiles be the tears replacement

They said the clouds opened up
And the heavens came down
Felt like precipitation all the same
And I guess friend well look
When we go to sleep for good
We'll just sing in the rain

And I guess we all live
In the eye of a storm
And around us rages it raged
And it don't take much
You can reach out to touch
Where the storm starts ain't that far away
