

Just a Glimpse

Bebo Norman

Just a glimpse into the deep
Into your love could change everything
Can you bring me back, back to the time
When we met face to face
I've never been closer to the edge of falling
Open up, open up, open up my heart again
Just enough, just enough, just enough to see a glimpse
Of everything you are, open up my heart
Just a glimpse and the veil would fall
And all that seemed hidden was here all along
And you'd take me back, back to the start
Lost in your affection, lost enough to find again
The light that steals away the dark
Oh my love, oh my love
Deep enough to dream with you again
Oh my soul, Oh my soul
The toll that time has taken on me
Cannot break the arms that hold me